Gerontology Acceleration Programme

The Gerontology Acceleration Programme (GAP) provides the opportunity for highly motivated and enthusiastic Registered Nurses (RNs) to undertake a skills and experience-based professional development programme.

GAP is designed to support personal, professional and academic development of RNs working across older persons health care settings. The programme will enhance gerontological knowledge and skills whilst providing the opportunity to develop leadership and management potential.

The programme duration is approximately 12 months and commences mid-year.

Programme Components

1. Two clinical rotations
2. Postgraduate education
3. Goal setting
4. Mentor support
5. PDRP portfolio development

Clinical Rotations

- You will undertake two clinical rotations of 13-weeks each in clinical settings which may include: Aged Residential Care, Older Persons Mental Health, Acute Care or Older Persons Health and Rehabilitation Services.
- You will be assigned an experienced preceptor to support you within the workplace.

Postgraduate Education

Postgraduate education is an important component of GAP and is integral to developing knowledge and skill within the gerontology setting. The University of Otago offers a suggested educational pathway

Postgraduate Certificate in Health Sciences, Endorsed in Nursing (Gerontology) – 60pts

Participants may also choose to undertake postgraduate study with different tertiary providers. This will be considered on an individual basis depending on each participants chosen academic pathway and career plan. Course fees and any study leave required will be funded by Health Workforce New Zealand for GAP participants.

Mentorship

All participants will be provided mentorship for the length of the programme. These mentors will provide professional guidance and support to you whilst providing the opportunity for you to critically reflect on your own practice and support you with your professional goals.
